

#4170119 in Books 2006-07-17Original language:EnglishPDF # 1 13.18 x 1.29 x 9.68l, 4.95 #File Name:

817508314X335 pages | File size: 53.Mb

Usha R. Krishnan

*ePub | *DOC | audiobook | ebooks | Download PDF*

[Library ebook] Indian Jewellery - Dance of the Peacock: Jewellery Traditions of India

Indian Jewellery - Dance of the Peacock: Jewellery Traditions of India

Usha R. Krishnan : Indian Jewellery - Dance of the Peacock: Jewellery Traditions of India before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Indian Jewellery - Dance of the Peacock: Jewellery Traditions of India:

0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Five StarsBy annExcellent!2 of 2 people found the following review helpful. wonderful book, but overpriced.By RaoThis is an extremely well researched book and covers the length and breadth of the Indian subcontinent. Being from a family of jewellery collectors of traditional designs and antiques, I know this book is a must have for a person like me or one who is interested in getting a solid understanding of the subject- but the asking price of this book is its weight in gold! At 222$, I'd get another wearable piece instead :)2 of 2 people found the following review helpful. Magnificent !!By BedazzledI masterpiece in itself. shows all the various styles and designs of gold jewellery in the indian subcontinent. a must have for die hard collectors.

This fascinating volume contains over 500 colour photographs, many from previously undocumented collections. It is full of fascinating historical detail, including the legend of the Koh-i-Noor diamond, now the centrepiece of the State Crown of Queen Elizabeth II. The book explains the skill and techniques of the Indian craftsmen and reveals Accessing collections that have never been documented before; in a genre of its own; Informative, interesting and very readable -- Libas, Vol 14, Issue 4, 2001 About the Author Usha Ramamrutham Bala Krishnan, initiated Dance of the Peacock, based on her many years of research into Indian jewellery. She has a Ph.D. in Ancient Indian Culture from Bombay University and a post-doctorate degree in Museum Studies from New York University. She has worked for the Brooklyn Museum, New York, in the department of Asian Art. She was, until recently, the Indian representative of Sotheby's, the internationally renowned auction house. As a Research Associate, she pioneered and steered the Brooklyn Museum's Mughal Jewellery project and has catalogued and written about the Indian jewellery in the collection of the Musee Barbier-Mueller, Geneva. She is currently a Fine Arts consultant based in Bombay and the Indian correspondent for the Asian Art Newspaper, London. Usha writes on various aspects of classical and contemporary Indian arts for publications around the world. Meera Sushil Kumar, has a Master of Arts and Master of Philosophy from Delhi University. Subsequently, she was a lecturer in Philosophy at Indraprastha College at Delhi University. Hailing from a family of reputed jewellers, she has been researching, writing and lecturing on the subject for many years, and brings to the project years of first hand experience with traditional Indian jewellery. Currently, she is working on a book on Indian Textile Traditions.