

#1425139 in Books 2014-11-25 2015-03-19Original language:EnglishPDF # 1 9.70 x .70 x 6.80l, .0 #File

Name: 1625450540192 pages | File size: 70.Mb

Stephen C. Compton

*ebooks | Download PDF | *ePub | DOC | audiobook*

[Free] It's Just Dirt! The Historic Art Potteries of North Carolina's Seagrove Region (America Through Time)

It's Just Dirt! The Historic Art Potteries of North Carolina's Seagrove Region (America Through Time)

Stephen C. Compton : It's Just Dirt! The Historic Art Potteries of North Carolina's Seagrove Region (America Through Time) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised It's Just Dirt! The Historic Art Potteries of North Carolina's Seagrove Region (America Through Time):

1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. Great reference book with photosBy Rosie ZeiglerInteresting book, great photos and historic information. Disects the pottery world and makes it easier to understand. Definatly recommend to anyone interested in Seagrove area potters.0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Great Book1By Concerned ConsumerGreat historical book of Seagrove region Potters. As a potter, this held my interest completely.0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Excellent resource.By zilgepExcellent detailed coverage of the subject. Photos and pottery marks abound. Want to know more about Seagrove area potters? This is the book for you.

Located near the geographic heart of North Carolina, Seagrove is known as the pottery town. Though not the only place where pottery has been made in the state, when you say Seagrove to people, they suspect that youre talking about pottery. From its modest 18th century beginnings with a few Quaker potters from Pennsylvania and Nantucket, the Seagrove region today hosts more than one hundred potters. This is its history.

About the AuthorFollowing his introduction to North Carolinas pottery scene while working as a small town newspaper photographer in the 1970s, Stephen C. Compton was on the path to becoming one of the regions top pottery collectors and noted experts on the subject. An eighth generation North Carolinian, Steves interests include the states 18th and 19th century earthenware and stoneware traditions, as well as its early to mid-20th century art potteries, and how these traditions inform the work of hundreds of the states contemporary clay artists today.