While in RIVERFRONT STATE PRISON, Camden NJ ( 1/2001 - March 2002) - I commissioned a fellow inmate ROBERT COAR to illustrate my story, "to story board it". Robert Coar and I both spent a lot of time in the law library. We became friends both of us working on our cases, helping others and being creative. One of the things I was trying to do was to write a book,. It took me ten more years before "PUBLIC ENEMY #420" was published in 2010. When I got out of prison in 2002 I didnt really try to find a illustrator to make this a real comic but I saved it. Robert Coar couldn't do the actual illustration with prison issue materials. I didn't have any luck finding a distributor/publisher - Robert was there a few years longer than I., by time he was released I was in Los Angeles. I recently talked to Robert and we plan on releaseing a illustrated version of this prison comic. This "story board" should be considered a collectors item for historical - public figures. There will only be 420 versions of this sold.
